LUCKNAM PARK S HEAD CHEF HYWEL JONES WINS MICHELIN STAR

Experience historic and contemporary spa treatments within a few miles of each other in a two-day break of pure pampering.

A unique opportunity to enjoy the refurbished 18th century Bath Spa, stay in the traditional luxury of Lucknam Park Hotel, and then make the most of their thoroughly modern spa treatments.

The spa town of Bath is taking on a new lease of life, as the waters for which it is world-renowned are being tamed, treated and re-housed as part of a £7.8 million refurbishment scheme.

Opening in April, this will be the only place in the UK where natural thermal spring water will be drawn, its healing properties having been exalted for many thousands of years. The restoration of five historic buildings, including the 18th century Hot Bath and Cross Bath, and the construction of a stunning new glass and stone building will highlight the juxtaposition of old and new, in this exciting new development.

Having re-lived the leisure pursuits of a bygone era, take a step into Lucknam Park, an 18th century Palladian mansion set in 500 acres of rolling parkland. With libraries, drawing rooms, dining rooms and roaring fires to relax in front of you really will feel like a Victorian lady of leisure.

However, after all of this traditional pampering, perhaps it is time for some truly modern treatments. Step into one of the most delightful leisure spas in the country. This award-winning spa has an indoor swimming pool with doors opening onto sunny terraces and a rose-filled walled garden.

The whirlpool spa, sauna, steam room, solarium and gym will keep you relaxed, whilst more specific treatments are available in the separate house dedicated to massage and beauty treatments. Cutting edge Clarins facials, manicures, massages, reflexology and much, much more are all on offer.

This offer is available Sunday through Thursday and is based on 2 people sharing a standard double-bedded room for a minimum of two nights.

Lucknam Park are offering an incredible 'Revitalise' programme for £150 per person per night. This fabulous offer includes full use of the spa facilities, a one-hour spa treatment during your stay, a 20 percent discount on all additional pre-booked treatments, a fitness assessment and accommodation, dinner and breakfast.
