Lucknam Park Restaurant Awarded 3 AA Rosettes

"This award takes a restaurant into the big league. Expectations of the kitchen are high: exact technique, flair and imagination must come through in every dish, and balance and depth of flavour are all-important." <http://www.theaa.com>

Lucknam Park has once again re-affirmed its reputation for all round excellence, in receiving the outstanding accolade of three AA rosettes for its restaurant. The chef Robin Zavou, already reputed to have 'Michelin stars in his eyes' has clearly taken cooking standards at the hotel to a new level.

Lucknam Park also has four red stars in the AA Accommodation Quality rating. On top of this, the AA each year award 200 hotels across the country with the accolade of being in the 'Top 200', Lucknam Park are delighted to have been included in this elite group of hotels since the inception.

"From large luxury hotels to snug country inns, the Top 200 Hotels are our best hotels in the country. They are selected from each of the star-rating levels for their exceptional quality of accommodation and customer service." <http://www.theaa.com>

Mr Murray, Managing Director of the hotel "is delighted with these accolades which complement the very high investment in the property during the past few years".

Lucknam Park is a truly exceptional 18th century Palladian mansion, set in 500 acres of stunning parkland just 7 miles from Bath. Already an award-winner, this recent recognition serves to highlight the standards in luxury, service and dining being achieved at this outstanding hotel.

Room rates start from £215 per room per night. The current Autumn Weekend Offer means that guests staying two nights on the Weekend Leisure break rate over a Friday and a Saturday night will receive the Sunday night at a very special rate of £99 on a room only basis.
